

Protect, Modernize, and Expand Medicaid

Expand and enhance quality health care to achieve affordable, universal coverage

Today Medicaid covers 74 million low income and/or disabled Americans, the vast majority of whom lack access to other affordable health insurance. Medicaid plays an especially critical role for certain populations – covering nearly half of all births and 48 percent of children with special health care needs – and is the largest source of funding for long-term services and supports. Medicaid finances nearly a fifth of all personal health care spending in the U.S., providing significant financing for hospitals, community health centers, physicians, nursing homes, and jobs in the health care sector. Health care reform efforts aimed at achieving universal coverage should leverage the Medicaid program to cover up to an additional 12 million uninsured individuals – nearly half of the remaining 25 million eligible uninsured.

Medicaid managed care is delivering value to States and consumers through: ensuring the delivery of high-quality care; increasing access to well-care and primary care; providing access to enhanced services and supports not covered in Fee-for-Service programs; improving beneficiary satisfaction with coverage; and realizing cost-savings and increasing States' ability to meet their budget goals. Three-quarters of Medicaid enrollees are in comprehensive managed care products and States are shifting more complex Medicaid populations into managed care every year. To expand access while maintaining a sustainable Medicaid program, States should:

Expand Medicaid and Transition Fee-for-Service Populations to Managed Care

- Expand Medicaid to all States to cover 3.5 million more individuals.
- Auto-enroll eligible individuals into the program and simplify eligibility determinations to provide coverage to 8.5 million individuals who are eligible today, but not yet enrolled.
- Transition Fee-for-Service populations into managed care, including beneficiaries who are dually eligible for Medicare and Medicaid, to save $100 billion over 10 years.

Provide Managed Care Organizations (MCOs) with Broader Flexibilities

- Design localized, flexible health benefits to encourage appropriate use and place of services.
- Align provider payment rates to reward quality outcomes and efficient health care resource use through value-based care programs.
- Promote fully integrated medical and social services care models to address social determinants of health to improve outcomes, lower spending, and reduce health disparities.
- Develop performance-based networks to improve quality by modernizing network adequacy standards and promoting premium physician designation based on quality and cost efficiency.

Protect Medicaid through Adequate Funding

- Provide adequate funding to ensure stability for beneficiaries.
- Allow MCOs to reinvest funds into value-add benefits and community-based programs.
